

New Jersey's strong do not call act has given back very precious private time for my family. Since I never purchase anything from telemarketers the invasion on our scare time together was particularly onerous. I support this measure wholeheartedly and hope that the government will continue to support families rights to decline these unwanted solicitations.